Walsh ATP Central
Automate your ATP Testing

You can now record and manage your entire ATP program in the same system as all your other inspections.

If you use Hygiena, 3M, Neogen, or any other system, Walsh ATP Central gives you a single platform to record and manage all your findings.

Visual inspections are not always enough.

If you are currently performing visual inspections or fluorescent gel testing, you should consider adding an ATP program to your protocol.

ATP testing tells you the amount of residue on a surface; a low score means it is near sterile, a high score means that the surface is dirty.

With Walsh ATP Central, you input your reading once and a pass or fail is calculated instantly based on the brand you are using.

You can automatically create a re-test reminder, based on these readings.

Because you are working with the Walsh ecosystem, you can easily compare your ATP results against your visual inspections and fluorescent marking programs. If the scores don't coincide, then you might suspect that your other inspections are not as rigorous as they need to be.

If you ever want to switch from one ATP brand to another, Walsh ATP Central keeps all your old data, and adjusts your reporting automatically to your new system. You are no longer restricted to your ATP vendor's software.

NEW We are now proud to offer the Hygiena Ensure touch ATP System. Let us know how we can help.
